

I believe cellular phone numbers should be transferable just like regular phone numbers (within an exchange). With the current numbers of cellular phone users, and the anticipated growth, we as cellular phone users would easily absorb any additional charges. I would gladly pay a few extra cents per month to reserve the right to switch cellular phone companies at any time and to keep my same phone number.